

CHURCHILL COMES OFF SECOND BEST WITH SMALL BOYS

Two of Them Steal Prime Minister's Thunder At A Leave-Taking

NON-PLUS STATESMAN

Born With Red Hair, He
Has A Thunderstorm
Temperament

Winston Churchill is a fighter. The Prime Minister who will confer with President Truman in Washington next week proved this in his long career as soldier and statesman in two world wars. But some things can get "under his skin," as shown in this third article of a series of four giving an intimate picture of the 77-year-old British leader.

By John E. Carlow
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(INS)—Somewhere in London today are two small boys who did something even the mighty Joe Stalin couldn't do—take some of the steam out of "Battler" Winston Churchill.

It happened at Paddington station in the recent election campaign which returned "Winnie" to power with a vow to make British defenses like "a hedgehog"—not the "punch of a rabbit."

Churchill, on his way to make a speech at Plymouth, was getting his usual hero's send-off. As thousands cheered, he ambled amiably along the platform, smiling, doffing his hat and waving his cigar.

Suddenly, amid the cheering, a slight but curiously penetrating note of discord was struck by two small boys who scrambled up on a fence and piped at Churchill:

"Big head! Big head!"

The great man paused and looked around, scowling. But the boys had scuttled out of sight like rabbits.

Churchill continued down the platform, smiling now and with his hat belligerently clamped on his somewhat outsize bald dome.

He seemed in better humor when he got to his coach. Before entering he smiled and removed his hat to acknowledge the final cheers of the crowd. In the brisk autumn air his cheeks were ruddy, his nose red.

Abruptly, this time through the very legs of the police holding back the crowd, the two small boys appeared again. One actually stuck his tongue out at Churchill and both shrieked:

"Cherry nose! Cherry nose!"

The famed Churchill "bulldog" jaw jutted forward and he looked as though he might go for the kids.
But they were out of sight before anyone could grab them.

Churchill was left with his "big head" unbarred and his "cherry nose" blazing—but with no enemy to face. It seemed to dispirit him.
He shrugged, muttered something about "Communists" and meekly climbed into the coach.

It was a moral victory for the kids, mainly because they had literally stolen some of Churchill's minor thunder. One of Winston's school teachers has recorded that he was "the naughtiest small boy in the world." And twice, when he was leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, he stuck his tongue out at Socialist members of Parliament.

Normally, however, Churchill is at his best in more robust combat.
Discarded as Britain's leader after World War Two, he fought his way back to the top by sheer force of

TWO HIGHWAYMEN ENTER SERVICE STATION AT FALLSINGTON; TAKE THE REGISTER CONTENTS AND MEN'S WALLET

OXFORD VALLEY, Dec. 28.—
Two armed men walked into Quinn's Gas Station along U. S.
Route 1 near Gallagher's Trailer Park at 12.30 this morning and with pointed guns held up the attendant and one patron. The men were not masked and are described as "young." One is said to have been a white man and one a negro. The contents of the cash register, approximately $75, along with $87 taken from a patron was hastily scooped up and the men made their escape.

It is believed, the men made their escape on foot. No car was seen in the vicinity and it is stated that the men merely walked into the place, staged the holdup, got
the money and fled.

The station, at the time, was in charge of Louis Galloway, Newtown. It is a 24 hour station. A customer, Michael Miller, Yucca Boulevard, Hollywood, Cal. was told that the men merely walked into
the place, staged the holdup, got
the money and fled.

Before entering the service station the highwaymen took the keys from Galloway and Miller's cars.
According to police, the negro is believed to have had a nickel plated revolver thought to have been of 32 caliber.

The men are described as follows: white man, 6'1" tall, 175 lbs., 25 to 30 years old, slender, ruddy complexion, black hair, wearing a gray top coat, white shirt with collar open and gray wash pants.
Colored man: very dark, heavy set, 5'9" tall, 180-190 lbs., stocky build, black thin mustache, gray hat, light brown overcoat, gray pants. Both appeared very dirty and disorderly.
Investigation is being made by State police officers, Daubert and Metroka and Falls Township police chief, Franklin Kirby.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

The threat of a New Year's Eve strike of 700,000 steel workers was averted when union leaders, meeting in Pittsburgh, instructed the men to remain on the job until a special convention, to meet in Atlantic City on Thursday, had had a chance to consider President Truman's steel peace plan.

Harold E. Stassen announced that he would campaign again for the Republican Presidential nomination. He said his recent conference with General Eisenhower in Paris had a "direct bearing" on his decision.

Despite the offer of the United States Government to pay their fines, totaling $120,000, the four American fliers held in Hungary were still in custody. However, the United States charge d'affaires in Budapest was asked to visit the Foreign Office this morning, and it was assumed he would be informed that the air-men had been set free.
In Washington Congressional demands were made for a Senate inquiry into Hungary's "international insult" in arresting the four American fliers. The Rumanian Government announced that five men, accused of having parachuted into Rumania from a United States plane to carry on espionage, had died, four before a firing squad and the other by suicide.

Diplomats in Moscow regarded the Soviet Union's acceptance of George Kennan as the next United States Ambassador to the Soviet Union as one of the most encouraging recent developments in international affairs.

The United Nations delegates at the Korean truce negotiations indicated that if the enemy would explain the fate of the 50,000 men captured but missing from the enemy's war prisoners' list they might agree on an over-all exchange of war captives, as the Communists wish. Two enemy jets were destroyed and another damaged in an air battle over North Korea.

King Farouk's appointment of two pro-Westerners as his foreign policy advisers was hailed by the Egyptian Foreign Minister.

Hope rose for an amicable adjustment of differences, dividing United States and British military experts over the merits of a new British infantry rifle and those of a rifle developed in this country.

U. S. SENATOR EDWARD MARTIN CALLS FOR A FIGHTING CITIZENRY TO "DRIVE OUT THE GANGSTERS" AND HELP BRING TO THE BAR OF JUSTICE THE "RASCALS, HIGH OR LOW, WHO USE PUBLIC OFFICE AS ROAD TO EASY WEALTH"

ADDRESS OF U. S. SENATOR MARTIN

PENNDel, Dec. 28.—Following is the text of the address delivered last night by U. S. Senator Edward Martin before the Inter-Community Dinner held in Red Men's Hall, here:

Bucks County can point with the greatest pride to the brilliant record of its historic past.

Here William Penn established one of the three original counties when he laid the foundation for the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Here the Quaker founder of our State built his country home overlooking the broad waters of the Delaware River.

Today Pennsbury Manor, happily restored, stands as a shrine of Patriotic inspiration. It recalls the illustrious achievements of William Penn in the advancement of political and religious liberty and freedom of the individual.

Here in Bucks County you have Washington Crossing Park, a memorial to the military genius of General Washington in crossing the Delaware with his Continental Army to gain one of the notable victories of the Revolution.

Throughout its history Bucks County has been a stronghold of patriotic Americanism. Its fine citizens have contributed generously to the growth of our State and Nation in industry, and agriculture as well as cultural and spiritual enrichment.

I cannot speak to a Bucks County audience without paying tribute to one of your outstanding citizens who has given a life-time of sincere and unselfish service in the cause of good government.

I refer, of course, to that great patriot and distinguished American, the Honorable Joseph R. Grundy.
I count myself most fortunate to have had the pleasure and the benefit of his friendship over the years.

There have been times in the tide of political affairs when we were not in agreement. There have been times when we found ourselves on opposite sides of a hard fought contest.

But never—not in one single instance—have I had reason to doubt the integrity or sincerity of Senator Grundy.

On every occasion I was absolutely certain that his position was dictated by no other motive except that, which in his judgment, was for the benefit of the people of Pennsylvania and the United States.

Throughout his long life Senator Grundy has been a strong and stalwart fighter for principle, for honor and decency. He has battled vigorously to promote the welfare and prosperity of the State and Nation. He has never sought public acclaim although no one is more deserving of our praise and gratitude. He is a real American.

In referring to the rich historic past of Bucks County, I am not unmindful of the tremendous industrial transformation now underway.
It is perhaps without parallel in the history of American private enterprise.

The giant undertaking represented by the Fairless Works of the United States Steel Corporation, and the many other industries that have come into Bucks County, are indicative of the strength of our country.

They prove our readiness to defend and support our liberties and the American way of life against any force, at home or abroad.

Their true goal is production for peace—to help all mankind toward a better world of freedom, as ordained by God.

It takes great production to make a nation strong and a people cannot be free unless they are strong.
Great production cannot be achieved where the people depend upon a paternalistic government.

Neither can great production be achieved where freedom of the individual is restricted by government.

With the great industrial devel-

Inter-Borough Dinner Meeting at PennDel Hears Stirring Address by U. S. Senator from Penna.—Pays Tribute to Community Co-operation Displayed — Devotes Major Portion of Address to General Washington's Crossing of The Delaware 175 Years Ago.

(SPECIAL TO THE COURIER)

PENNDel, Dec. 28 — As this country approaches the all-important national elections next year, the paramount issue has become morality in government, U. S.
Senator Edward Martin last night told an enthusiastic group gathered from the communities centering on Penndel, meeting in the Redmen's hall here for their Inter-Community dinner.

He called upon a fighting citizenship to "drive out the grafters" and help bring to the bar of justice the dealers in influence, the bribe-takers, and "all other rascals, high or low, who use public office as a road to easy wealth."

"There can be no compromise in the clash between right and wrong," he declared.

Senator Martin devoted a major part of his address to General Washington's Crossing of the Delaware, the 175th anniversary of which occurred last Christmas night.

"Events near this neighborhood a hundred and seventy-five years ago changed the course of history," he said.

"The fight for independence was at a low ebb. The army was discouraged and defeated, and most of its weapons were gone and its uniforms in tatters. Bloody footprints in the snow marked its path wherever it went.

"General Washington, that great leader, realized that something desperate must be done.

"No other event ever meant so much to us. If he had not succeeded, we would never have had this great nation of ours.

"Washington had faith in the cause of freedom, and he had faith in his army. He knew they wanted liberty, and weren't afraid to fight for it.

"They marched to the river with sleet in their faces, and embarked on the Delaware when it was full of floating ice. George Washington and his army didn't falter. They pushed on to Trenton, and they defeated the Hessians.

"Afterwards General Washington took his hundreds of prisoners to Philadelphia, and paraded them through the streets, so that the Tories and the doubters could see that the Continental Army could win victories. It encouraged the Americans, and it stimulated our friends abroad.

"We must have more of that spirit today. Let liberty ring! Don't be ashamed to uphold our flag. Get on the ramparts of freedom!

"We have enemies of freedom in other countries, and we have them here at home. But with more of the spirit of Washington at the Delaware, we can win over all of them."

"The occasion of the dinner was a community gathering representing PennDel, Langhorne, Langhorne
Manor, Parkland, Middletown Township, Hulmeville, and a large number of organizations in them, including the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Jesse W. Soby Legion Post No. 148, several firemen's associations, and the Associated Businessmen of PennDel.

General Martin paid tribute to the community cooperation being displayed, and said that with enough of it, the great problems created by the rapid expansion of industry and population in Lower Bucks County could be taken in stride.

"I am sure that Bucks County will meet its new responsibilities in the true American way, without going to Washington with hat in hand for handouts," he said.

The meeting was opened by Joseph A. Keating, chairman of the dinner committee. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. R. L. Cur-

American Losses in Korea Since July, 24,692

Washington.—American losses in Korea since the start of armistice negotiations last July total 24,692, of which 3,242 were chalked up in the last 30 days. Defense Department statistics show that during the 30-day trial truce talks just ended, 652 Americans were killed in action, 2,499 were wounded and 181 are reported missing in action.

American Pilots Down Red Jet

Eighth Army Hq.—American jet pilots downed another Red jet in a 94-plane battle today while Allied troops recaptured a key hill on North Korea's east-central front in bitter seesaw fighting. High over northwest Korea 24 Sabrejets tangled with 70 Russian-type MIG-15s north of Einanju Friday afternoon and sent one of the enemy speedsters spinning earthward in flames. The Fifth Air Force, in an evening communique, made no mention of renewed large-scale air combat.

The deceased was a former resident of Philadelphia. She was a communicant of Our Lady of Grace
R. C. Church, PennDel.

The rites will be held Saturday at 9:30 from the funeral home of Wm. W. Dunn, here, with requiem mass in Our Lady of Grace Church, at 10 o'clock. Burial will be made in Our Lady of Grace Cemetery.
Friends may call Friday evening.

100 MILLION VEHICLES

As the auto makers join in a plea for better highways they continue to make cars long and wide. That leaves height as the only dimension on the decrease, to the enagement of those who still wear hats.

But it is the buyers, not the makers, who determine the kind of cars to be built. Americans want them big and roomy, as unlike European pushmobiles as possible. Restrictions in steel allotted the motor industry are showing up in fewer, not smaller, cars.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association knows people are going to continue to buy cars regardless of how slow and crowded many roads are becoming. So it is difficult to see selfish motives in their citing of some staggering figures.

In 1930 there were 26,000,000 cars and trucks. Before long there will be 50,000,000. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is quoted as estimating that "the highway traffic will double within the next 18 years." Double again, that is.

The cry in the twenties was "get out of the mud." Now one of the motor makers has produced a color movie entitled "Let's Get Out of the Muddle." No one knows better than the high-taxes motor industry the problem of financing new, fast, durable highways. And no group is better fitted to lead a new good roads movement in the United States.

That movement is getting under way, for toll roads as well as tax-built roads. The national safety and well-being depend as never before on highways.

WINTER TWILIGHT

The end of a winter day comes often with startling abruptness. Twilight and dusk creep upon one almost unaware. The best vantage for winter twilight is in the woods, preferable when a man is out splitting and stacking his next winter's supply of woods.

Rhythmically and evenly the axe rises and falls and with each swing a stout square chunk of timber splits clean and true. When the last stick is in place, the woodsman stops and straightens up for a breather.

Then he is of a sudden aware of the change. The snow is no longer white. It is gray. Above the fretted branches the sky has lost its blue to a steel gray. Only in the west is there color. Unnoticed the sun has sunk and there beyond the interlacing bare branches and trunks of the trees, an effulgence of cold crimson is fading swiftly as if reflecting the dying embers of some vast conflagration.

A deeper shade of red emerges in the western sky that grows darker and darker until shortly it will merge with the darkness.

Science is seeking a drug to reduce worry, the old age pension having failed to accomplish that purpose.

Some persons continue to talk about taking war toys away from children. More to the point would be to take them away from their elders.

U. S. Senator Edw. Martin Calls for Fighting Citizenry To "Drive Out Gangsters" rie, of the Langhorne Methodist Church.

Toastmaster was President Judge Hiram H. Keller of Bucks County Courts, who introduced prominent guests, including A. Harry Clayton, Republican County Committee Chairman; Assemblyman Marvin V. Keller; State Senator Edward B. Watson; the district's new Congressman, Hon. Karl C. King; and former U. S. Senator Joseph H. Grundy.

In introducing Senator Martin, Judge Keller said:
"It is my pleasant duty to present to you a man whom all of you know very well by reputation—a soldier, lawyer and statesman. He became a soldier in the Spanish-American War, and has remained associated with the military branch ever since, despite his many other activities."

"In public life he has been successively Auditor General, State Treasurer, Adjutant General, Governor and U. S. Senator."

"To my way of thinking, he was one of the best governors we ever had, and not wanting to see his talents lost from public service, the Pennsylvania electorate elevated him to the Senate. I present to you our senior U. S. Senator, General Edward Martin."

Among those at the head table were: Thomas Percetti, president of the Penndel Business Men's Association; Kenneth Comly, president of the Neshaunty Joint School District; Stafford Caldwell, commander of the Jesse W. Soby Legion Post; and George Ambler, Jr., president of the Langhorne Lions Club.

Part of the occasion was given over to the annual Christmas party of the Lions Club. Various stunts were performed, with penalties collected which will be used for charitable causes.

One of the features was the distribution of "Christmas gifts," consisting of gaudy neckties which the recipients had to put on. The guests of honor were not forgotten, and General Martin wound up wearing a passionately actinic pink; Senator Grundy a chartreuse green; Congressman King a flaming red with sensational purple and pink diamond-shaped blocks; Chairman Keating a brilliant metallic gold; Senator Watson a concoction of yellow, pale blue and chocolate brown; and County Chairman Clayton a whirlpool effect of light tan on brilliant black.

The benediction was given by the Rev. Edward H. Koob, of Our Lady of Grace Church, Penndel.

Background music, and special airs for some of the Lions Club stunts, were furnished by Silvio Clotti.

Red Men's Hall was freshly painted and redecorated for the occasion, and was trimmed with large medallions and banners representing the various communities and organizations which took part.

The municipalities and townships were honored with large gold plaques. The various service clubs had flags and banners on display. The Soby Post of the Legion had an official American flag.

In the front of the hall, behind the speakers' table, was a large banner, with the American flag worked out in colored metallic foil, and the inscription, "Interboro Cooperation."

Churchill Comes Off 2nd Best With Small Boys

personality and an indomitable faith in his own destiny.

Small busts of Napoleon and Horatio Nelson, Britain's great naval hero, stand on the "old war-rior's" desk, and he has written:

"A man's contribution to his life story is continually dominated by an external superior power."

Churchill, as befits a man who was born with red hair, helps out the "external superior power" with a thunderstorm temperament, fierce flashes of brilliance and great physical courage.

When France was about to fall under Hitler's onslaught, Churchill ordered a plane and flew to the continent through a storm in an effort to stave off the disaster. As he was leaving, he called to his valet:

"Give me my heavy pistol, and load it! If I fall into the hands of the Huns, I want to account for at least one before they get me!"

On his 74th birthday, Churchill rode for two hours to the bounds, a square black derby hat on his head and a big cigar in his mouth.

His enemies, in fact, claim that the swashbuckling soldier-statesman regards war and politics as glorified forms of fox-hunting.

What passes for "fight" and courage, they say, is nothing more than the bad temper of a grouchy old man who refuses to be forestalled or criticized.

They tell the story of the time, during the war, when Churchill was called from his emergency bedroom at the War Office in the middle of the night. Barefoot and wearing pyjamas, he stubbed his toes on half-a-dozen empty milk bottles standing in the darkened hallway. While army brass hats waited to make a vital decision, Winston carefully picked up each bottle in turn and smashed them all against the wall.

But the Churchillian righteous wrath can swing swiftly and disarmingly to sunny charm or sly humor.

He tells the story of the woman politician in a "mow-em-down" area of the Balkans who mourned after Winston's defeat in the 1945 election, "Poor Mr. Churchill, I suppose now he will be shot." Adds Churchill:

"I was able to assure her that the sentence has been mitigated to various forms of hard labor."

A minister who sent a pompous, rambling memorandum to Churchill had it shot back with a footnote in red ink:

"This is an example of stilted English up with which I will not put!"

To a man who, rather smugly, commented that "Everyone should possess one virtue—and the only one I can claim is that I do not smoke," Churchill replied:

"There is no such thing as a negative virtue. If one is to be of any service to one's fellow men it must be by self-expression, not self-repression."

It is not known whether he intended this to apply to small boys who hang around railroad stations. (Tomorrow: Churchill and America.)

Dredging Not To Affect Local Span

low Bristol is that the distance between piers is so narrow. The distance between piers on the local bridge is 540 feet. This is a vertical lift bridge, and the center span can be raised to a height of 135 feet above water. Although the Tacony and the Delair bridges would not be affected because of height, they would be affected due to narrowness of passage between piers. The Tacony-Palmyra bridge is a bascule lift bridge and this can be raised very high. The railroad bridge is of the swinging type, and so the height does not enter into the problem. The Delair bridge has a narrower passage between piers than has the Tacony bridge.

The extensive alterations to the two bridges to the west of Bristol are necessary due to plans for deepening the river channel from Philadelphia to Trenton, N. J.

These changes, according to the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, North Atlantic Division, will be necessary to provide clear navigation for the cargoes of iron ore, coal and petroleum which will move upstream to the new plant of U. S. Steel Co. in Falls township.

The Engineers announced that they have recently approved an over-all plan to provide for deepening and widening the existing 28 and 25-foot channels to 42 feet deep in rock cuts and 40 feet in other material, 400 feet wide, from Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, upstream to Newbold Island.

This would cost an estimated $88,625,000. The Engineers also recommended a similar deepening project between Allegheny avenue and the Philadelphia Naval Base, with a widening of the channel to 500 feet in Horseshoe Bend at an estimated cost of $4,490,000.

An additional annual maintenance cost of $642,000 is estimated for the upstream project. No increase in annual maintenance cost will be necessary for the downstream deepening.

The Army's recommendation is subject to the provision that the cities of Philadelphia and Camden agree to dredge not less than 10,000 cubic yards annually in maintaining the channel and anchorages in Philadelphia harbor between Allegheny avenue and the mouth of the Schuylkill.

On the upstream proposal, construction cannot be initiated until appropriate State or local interests "have given assurances satisfactory to the Secretary of the Army that they will furnish, without cost to United States, all lands, easements, rights-of-way and disposal areas necessary for the construction of the project."

Today's Quiet Moment

By William E. Hakes
Pastor

First Baptist Church of Bristol

"If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be given unto you." Thus God states one of His great principles regarding prayer. Many in error feel that prayer is a certain psychological release obtained. That God actually never comes into the picture, either as Healer or Answerer of our petitions. But this is definitely not the Biblical evaluation of prayer. Prayer is a personal approach to God through His Son, Jesus Christ. Jesus Himself declared, "No man cometh unto the Father, but by me." So it is only the believer in Jesus who can talk with God and expect an answer. Another requirement for prayer is cleanliness. If our hearts are soiled and stained by sin, it is better not to pray, for the psalmist wrote of his own experience, "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." We must confess and as we do, Jesus' blood removes the guilt and brings renewed fellowship once more. There must also be a specific purpose in mind. James stated concerning prayer, "Ye have not because ye ask not." We must be specific when we pray. Vagueness in prayer defeats its very purpose. Let us come to God in Jesus' name with hearts clean and be very definite as we bring our needs to Him, believing that He does and will answer prayer.

ROHM & HAAS MOVES INTO TIE FOR 2ND PLACE

Rohm & Haas moved into a dead-lock for second place in the Bristol Basketball League by winning over Franklin, 48-46, last night before a large crowd on the Goodwill Hose Company court.

The chemical mixers had tough sledding until they began to pull away in the third quarter when Pat Carnevale and Angie Everitt dropped in a pair of double-deckers each. At the start of the final period, Nick Spadaccino scored three fielders in quick succession to enable the Maple Beach contingent to coast to the triumph.

Until the boys of Bert Barbetta began to break away from Franklin it was a closely-fought contest. Howard Keys had tied the score at 15-15 but Bill Butz broke the tie for Rohm and Haas. Later "Rabbit" Palumbo's field goal tied the count at 21-21 but Walter Zook's goal put the chemical workers ahead. Wallick knotted the score at 25 but successive goals by Carnevale and Everitt started the ultimate winners on their way to the triumph.

Carnevale, Everitt, Zook, and Spadaccino scored 49 of the winning team's points while Bill Wallick and Keys had 13 points each for Franklin.

of Bristol borough since the death of the late Senator Howard I. James. However, due to the demands of my private law practice I have decided not to be a candidate for reappointment to this office.

HILLTOP LOSES THIRD GAME IN A ROW; HIBOES WIN

Hilltop A. A. lost its third straight game of the Bristol Basketball League last night as it dropped a 44-41 decision to the Hibernians on the Goodwill Hose Company court. It was a close and hard-fought contest from start to finish with the score being deadlocked on several occasions. The count was knotted three times towards the finish. Esdale tied it at 37 and Mulligan at 39-39. After Auerweck put Hilltop ahead by two points, Rodgers tied it for the Hibs. A foul by Charlie Brady gave the Hibs a one-point lead and Joe Mulligan put the game in the bag with a fielder.

The Hibs had a 13-9 lead in the first period but dropped behind at the half-time mark, 24-20. It regained a 26-23 lead at the end of the third session.

Mulligan scored 14 points for the winners with Auerweck getting 15 counters for Hilltop.

oment here in Bucks County you are facing a trial of strength. You are confronted by many difficult problems.

Increasing population creates the need for expanded and more costly functions to protect the health and safety of the people. You will need new homes, new highways and streets, new water service, new schools and hospitals, new public utilities and all other facilities which are essential to the well-being of the citizens.

That is a big program. It will take the highest courage to attack these problems with initiative, self-reliance and sacrifice.

But I am sure Bucks County has the spirit of independence and the courage to assume these obligations through private enterprise, without going that in hand to Washington for a handout.

I am sure Bucks County will meet its responsibilities in the traditional American way, without surrendering control of its own affairs to Federal government restriction or regulation.

I am happy to be here at this most beautiful season of the year. Christmas brings to all of us a rebirth of faith and hope.

To all men of good will it brings solemn dedication to the teachings of the Prince of Peace. It inspires more fervent prayer for the fulfillment of the Divine promise of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

We share the joys of Christmas with the unfortunate and try to make their lives more cheerful.

We think of our boys who serve the cause of freedom in Korea and pray for their safe and speedy return to their homes and their loved ones.

At Christmas time the hope for peace prevails all over the world where men put God above material gain. If we could have that feeling the year around there would be greater progress toward permanent peace and the time when we could beat the implements of war into the tools of peace.

In this beautiful Christmas season our thoughts reach out toward the ideas of the Man of Galilee. He loved everyone—white or black, Jew or Gentile. He always taught love against hate.

Let us for a moment consider the confused and troubled state of the world today.

The Communists of Godless Russia are propounding an ideology which would destroy religion and all moral teachings. It would wipe out human freedom and all the spiritual values that have been created over the centuries by western civilization.

It is based on a philosophy of hate and envy advocated by Karl Marx a hundred years ago. His aim was to array one class against the other. He inaugurated the political trickery of inflaming the havens against the haves.

The time has really come when the world must choose between the poisonous doctrine of Karl Marx and the love of Christ.

If we follow Karl Marx we shall have slavery.

If we follow the teachings of my opinion, it will take a new broom to sweep the government clean.

The candidates deserving of our support should be willing and qualified to lead an aroused electorate until every semblance of moral degeneracy is removed from public life.

They should be willing to give us government at a cost we can afford.

They should be strong enough to stand firm against the wails and the criticism of those seeking special privilege and selfish advantage—no matter whether the demands come from capital, labor, business or industry.

They should have unquestioned loyalty and devotion to the Constitution and should be true to its principles in the conduct of the government.

They should be willing to preserve inviolate the freedom of the individual, even at the sacrifice of personal popularity.

They should be strong enough to ignore skillfully prepared propaganda and establish a foreign policy that will insure an honorable and lasting peace.

I have tried to impress upon you that the great moral issue in the coming campaign is honesty in government against dishonesty.

At the same time it is important to consider the vast expansion in the size and cost of government at every level, Federal, state and local.

The people are demanding more services, particularly at the Federal level.

Thirty years ago 65 per cent of the cost of government was at the state and local level, while 35 per cent was spent by the Federal government. Today that has been reversed through centralization of functions at Washington. The Federal government now spends 76 per cent of all taxes collected from the people, while state and local government spends only 24 per cent.

The cost of the Federal government in the 144 years from Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt was 112 billion dollars. In the 12 years of the Roosevelt Administration the Federal government spent 356 billion dollars. The Truman Administration, in seven years, will spend 352 billion dollars, and by the end of its present term will have passed the Roosevelt record.

At the beginning of the Roosevelt Administration the Federal government had less than 600,000 civilian employees on the payroll. Today the number of persons working for Uncle Sam is about 2½ million.

When President Harding took office the operation of the White House cost $330,000 a year. It now costs over two and one-half million dollars a year. President Harding had 31 employees in the White House against 293 today.

Twenty years ago the national debt was 21 billion dollars. It will be 263 billion dollars by next June.

Unless our present course is checked and reversed, the continuing huge Federal spending, high taxes, unbalanced budgets and heavy debt will destroy the United States. Strong as we are, our economy will not sustain the burdens placed upon it by the reckless and unrestrained demands for bigger and bigger spending.

Every American should be a self-disciplined American. That means he should be willing to obey the laws of God and man. He should consider himself a watchman on the ramparts of freedom, guarding against any danger to the strength of our way of life.

Keeping in mind always that our Nation was founded upon faith in God, let us resolve to live at peace with each other, in righteousness, tolerance and good will, doing our full duty as Americans.
